Judges Urner and Worthington have dismissed the mandamus petition of J. Furr White against the supervisors dismissed the mandamus petition of J. Furr White against the supervisors of the recent primary election. White, who was teaten by Philip D. Laird for the nomination to the house of delegates, asserted that 129 ballots which were filled out with an indellible pencil instead of a black one as the law requires, should have been rejected. The court held that that would be an unduly strict application or the law and that the question involved the exercise of the supervisors' discretion and Judgment, thereby giving the court no authority to act.

Early Wednesday evening Miss Lottie Alma Tailey, daughter of Robert Tailey, left her home, ostensibly to spend the night with her sister. Instead, she joined Edward J. Whitlock and, accompanied by a friend, took a train for Washington.

Early yesterday the couple came here and shortly afterward were married by the Rev. Oscar W. Henderson.

Phillies Lost, So Farmer Must Do Neighbor's Work

SELBYVILLE, Del., Oct. 15.—The farm chores for this winter have no terrors for Martin Rickards, who has been an ardent rooter for the American League baseball teams. This year his neighbor, Alvin Tunnell, who has been a strong Phillie fan, bet Rickards that the Phillies would win the world's champloaship, and agreed that the loser would have to split wood, water and feed the stock and do the farm chores both morning and evening from now until the first day of May.

Both were in Selbyville when the final sore came, and Tunnell did both his own and his neighbor's work. After mikking the cow, feeding the hogs and bedding the horses, he announced that although he would stick to his bargain, he intended hiring a colored man to do the work for him.

Rickards doeen't care how it is done just so it is done, and is looking forward to a life of ease this winter. been an ardent rooter for the America
